In Memoriam

None of us will ever forget November 22, 1963. That fateful announcement over the school public address system that the President was dead left us deeply shocked.

In the next few days of national sorrow, we, along with people all over the world, tried to answer in our own minds the questions of why; and what does it mean for America?

Time has answered these questions for us. The assassination of President Kennedy was the act of an unstable, emotionally disturbed individual. It was not planned by any group of people, either foreign or domestic. We have learned to have, perhaps, more confidence in our government as a result of this tragic event. We have learned that the nation can survive the death of her President.

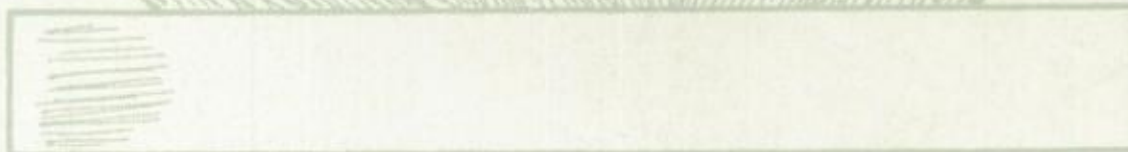

John F. Kennedy was a strong, intelligent, courageous President. Few presidents in our history have brought to the office of the presidency such intelligence. Few have created such excitement among the people. He was a President that grasped the many problems of this nation. He was dedicated to the solving of their problems - to making this nation; this world a better and a safer place in which to live.

John Kennedy wanted to be President because the presidency meant power. Power to do something for his country, that he could not do otherwise. He used his power to lead this nation towards the goal of our forefathers - equality of opportunity for all its citizens. He firmly believed that all Americans should have an equal chance in the struggle for "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

The shock of his death not only revealed the love and regard that we in this country felt for him, but also, the love and respect which people all over the world felt for this leader of the free world. Even the enemies of America respected him. His courage in the showdown with Russia over missiles in Cuba changed the image of the United States throughout the world. Nations and people were left with greater respect for the United States and President Kennedy because of this brave action.

John F. Kennedy lived and died for his country. We can only hope and pray that he did not die in vain. As citizens of this nation, our job remains to see that his ideals of freedom and justice for all men are carried out, not only in the United States, but the world.

Mr. Dillehay

The Reviewer Staff has worked diligently all year to produce a yearbook of high quality and distinction. The staff and their advisor, Mr. Dillehay, found the yearbook a real challenge, as both were new to the job of editing a yearbook. However, working together smoothed the way and made learning more enjoyable.

Karlene and Kay help select the style and size for the headings to be used throughout the book.

Assistant Editor, Joan Adams, and Assistant Business Manager Linda Stoddard work together on a part of the "Sports" section.

Students look forward to the yearbook dance held in early September. Picking up their books and securing autographs of classmates and returning Seniors highlight the evening.

A Parting Word . . .

We, the Class of 1964, have shared many good times that will live in the hearts of each of us forever. At this time, we would like to express our heartfelt thanks to those who have made possible the dawning of this day, eagerly anticipated by each Senior. Upon the completion of this milestone, we look back and give thanks for the challenges we experienced so often during our high school career, as we found each challenge good and necessary to the proper development of our character. Now, as we step out on faith, in hopes of seeing our dreams materialize, we leave behind some of the best years of our lives. Our deepest wish is that each class following us will take on the attitude of the great Abraham Lincoln, who once stated: "I will study and get ready, and perhaps my chance will come."

Senior Trip

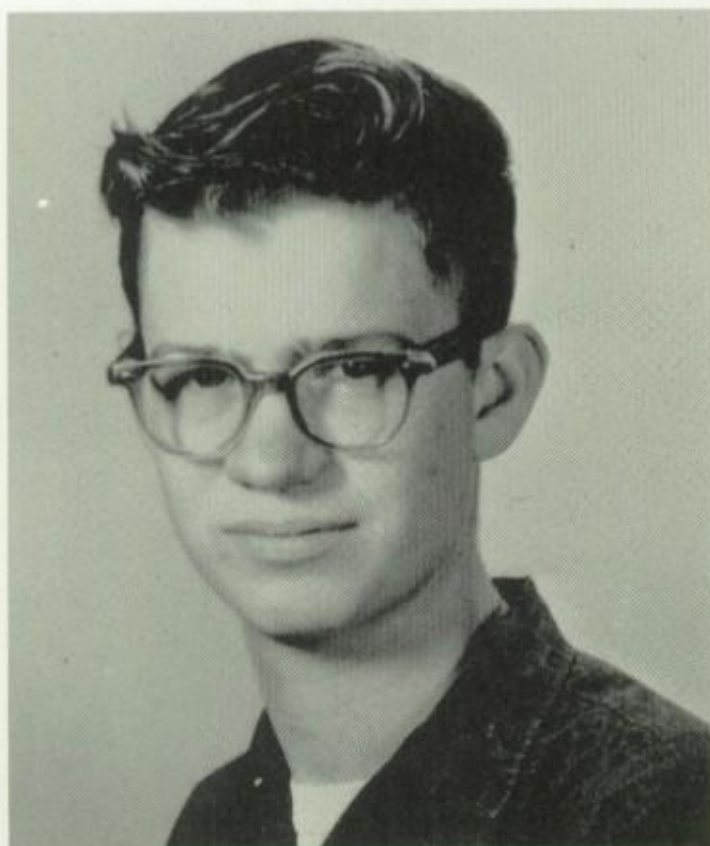

The Senior Class left for Double R Ranch near Belding, Michigan on May 20th at approximately 5:45 a.m. After arriving, they enjoyed a full day of activity including swimming, horseback riding, canoeing, "trampoline-ing" and shuffleboard. In the evening, they danced to the music of a band furnished by the ranch.

The bus rolled into the school at 12:30 a.m., carrying a load of tired, sunburned, but happy, Seniors.

In Memoriam

JAMES LE ROY SMITH

1945-1963

"Death is but crossing the world, as friends do the seas; they live in one another still."

Jim Smith crossed the world on August 3; yet, because of his immortal friendships, he lives in it still.

Henry Van Dyke once said, "There is only one way to get ready for immortality and that is to love this life and live it as bravely, and faithfully and cheerfully as we can."

In this sense, Jim was ready. His teachers and friends will always remember him for his pleasant disposition, his willingness to help, and his friendly ways.

Varsity Football

Although the team was not highly successful this year, they had a great many victories and made the scattered losses close ones. Despite the injuries that seemed to be always plaguing the team, they played hard and gave our numerous spectators many exciting moments.

Our Jayhawk cagers, leaning heavily on last year's reserves, showed remarkable improvement over the season. From a rocky beginning we continued to improve until finally beating Honover-Horton and Western on successive Friday nights late in the season. The Western game was undoubtedly the highlight of the campaign as we beat them 42-37 in a contest which ultimately cost Western the Conference Championship.

Our Baseball team did fair this spring and finished the season with a fourth place in the conference. The final result was a 4-4 season which the team can be proud of.

Gary Grow formed the nucleus of our pitching staff and showed a 3-2 record for the season. Gary had one very exciting game when he struck out 18 batters to set a new record for the greatest number of strike-outs in a single game.

Denny Negus and Mike Fairley led the batting for the season and both established batting averages above 400.

Everyone in the suspense packed gymnasium held their breath while awaiting Mr. Cowley to reveal the name of the 1963-64 Homecoming Queen. The Queen's Court consisted of the following representatives: 12th Grade - Marilyn Jones and Ron Perkins, Janet Herman and Meral Preece; 11th Grade - Linda Stark and Doug Boyers, Dianne Marsh and Larry Brooks; 10th Grade - Sue Stetler and Dan Storm; 9th Grade - Roxie Oliver and Mike Cogswell; 8th Grade - Marcia Glover and Dennis Stevens. Finally, the envelopes were opened, and the news we'd been waiting for was disclosed - Sandra Moffatt relinquished her throne to Janet Herman.
